Cashless Evolution

Consolidations, partnerships, and speed to market mark the evolution of cashless gaming

BY JOHN BRENNAN

The evolution graded by the U.S. Supreme Court's May 2018 ruling that voided a 20-year-old federal law that gave Nevada the authority to regulate slot machines. Seeing had to wait as those laws sat on legislative backburners.

And wait that has been a strategy of slotmarket operators all through the 2010s. The industry has been consolidating, with many such as British bookmaking giant William Hill USA subsidiary being bought by Las Vegas-based Boyd Gaming in 2020 for $1.7 billion in the most recent of a series of major acquisitions that have seen the top 10 operators to fluctuate for $225 billion.

Global gaming has been an overall driver of the growth. Major new markets have emerged, such as India and Brazil, where slot machines have been installed in bars and restaurants.

But the industry's main competitor up until the U.S. Supreme Court's 2018 ruling—i.e., and is likely to wind up as a candidate for the future—was the smartphone. The technology, the software and the devices that have made gambling more accessible with digital alternatives.

Global gaming revenues in growing countries have reported economic growth, and the demand for premium solutions has grown along with it," says Christopher Justice, CEO, Fiserv Payments.

"For now, several payments providers have emerged to serve the gaming industry and have been fairly successful in doing so. However, it seems likely that a few new leaders in the space will continue to grow and out-compete the rest, cementing themselves as the leaders in gaming payments."

—Christopher Justice, CEO, Fiserv Payments

WEBSITE AND EMAIL RETARGETING WITH GGB

What it is

It's a powerful way to extend your reach and turn interest into action and boosted.

Our data is used to target the social audience, with additional lookalike target lists available based on our data lists.

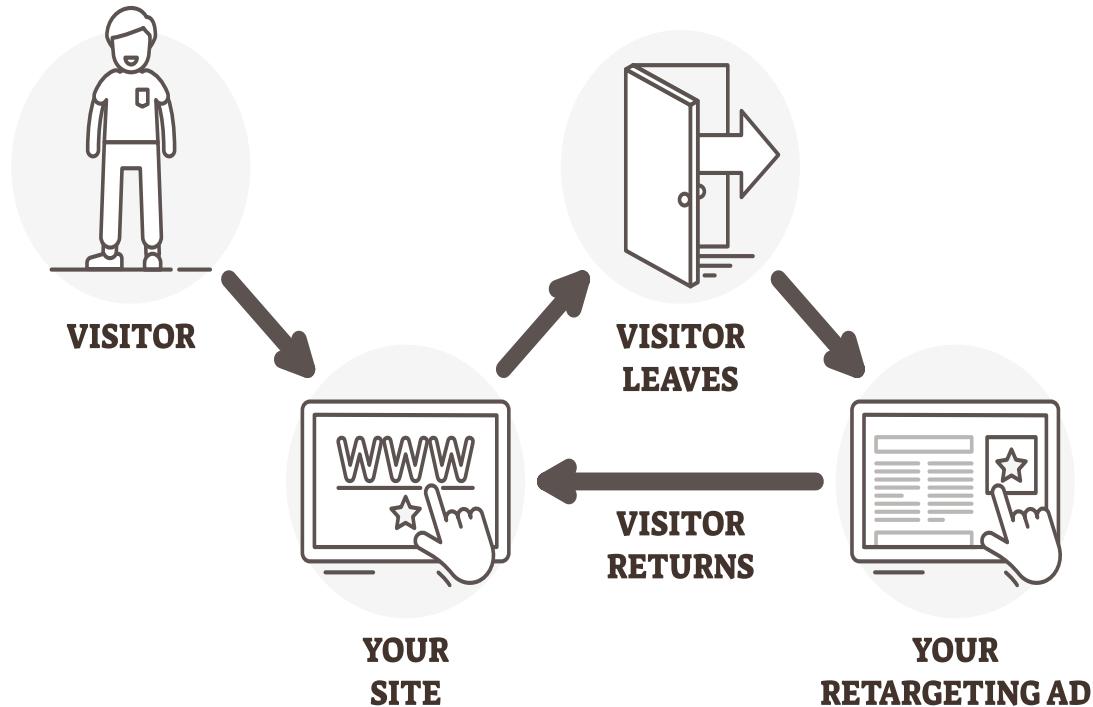

Website retargeting allows you to re-engage people who've already shown interest in the GGB website. Using our exclusive list of 35,000+ US-based Gaming professionals and decision-makers, we feed our audience into AdRoll and serve your targeted display ads across the web and social platforms to these people on average, 6 times a month.

Why it works

We create a list-based retargeting campaign for you on our retargeting platform by uploading our GGB US audience data.

Once uploaded, we then build a campaign that serves ads across various platforms to these identified contacts, leveraging their engagement with your brand to share product launches, promotions, event invites or re-engage them with new content.

We then also target anyone who has visited the GGB Magazine website as well. It's a great way to consistently get your brand and message in front of your audience over a regular period of time.
